How do you account for such enormous sales of your medicines in so short a time?

The reason is very simple, he replied. For years the daily papers have been filled with glowing advertisements of different medical preparations guaranteeing to cure all the ills flesh is heir to, publishing testimonials from distant cities only, and compelling the poor sufferers to pay their hard-earned money for the remedy before using.

The public were becoming disgusted. Professor Munyon entered the field with his new school of medicine, and instead of abus-ing others to make capital for himself, said to the sick and afflicted: "I have a cure for such and such diseases. To prove this fact I have placed 10,000 bottles of the cure with a reputable newspaper, where they can be obtained absolutely free by any one who wishes to try them. All I ask in return is that you report the results either good or bad, to the paper making this distribution." In this manner Professor Munyon has given away 25,000 vials of his remedies in St. Louis alone during the past year.
At first the people, who had been humbly bought for years, could hardly believe in the truth of this offer, but as the testimonials from well-known men and women (all from this city and vicinity) began to be published there was a rush for these cures, and at the expiration of two weeks, when the papers announced that ninety-six out of every hundred persons using them had been cured or greatly benefited, the most sceptical was convinced of the virtue of these remedies. Thus, you see, Munyon, with his honest work, obtained in a few weeks what others had been striving after for years—the confidence of the people.

Professor Munyon trusting in the virtue of his remedies, while others depend on surrogate advertising. The former method was bound to win, and to-day thousands of people depend entirely on Munyon's Remedies to cure whatever ailments they may have. No more doctors' bills for them.
With Munyon's Guide to Health and cure of his remedies in the house, they feel insured against disease, and well they may, for it is now an established fact that these medicines have cured more disease during the past year than the whole medical profession combined. With these facts before them, can any person hesitate one moment to try these cures, which are sold by all

BEGAN VOYAGE WITH EIGHTEEN STOWAWAYS.

Philadelphia, March 21.—Delayed nearly two days at Algiers to land a band of eighteen Italian stowaways who had hidden themselves in the hold of the vessel in an attempt to reach America, the Austrian steamship Margherita reached this port yesterday from the Mediterranean.

The stowaways, unable to endure the heat and thirst, appeared on deck after two days at sea, armed with knives. They were prepared to take charge of the ship, but hunger and thirst had made them more docile, and they submitted to being disarmed and locked up after having been fed.

When the Margherita arrived at Algiers, the stowaways were turned over to the Italian consul. How many as eighteen men stowed themselves away is one of the mysteries which Captain Cosulich is unable to fathom.

MRS. O. M. FITZGERALD COMPLETES NINETIETH READING OF THE BIBLE.

Mother of Resident Methodist Bishop Begins Another Reading of the Scriptures in Her Ninety-First Year—Her Record the Most Remarkable Known to Students—She Is Familiar With the Holy Book in Four Languages—Reads It as a Miner Seeks for Gold.

MRS. O. M. FITZGERALD.

Mother of Bishop Fitzgerald, who has read the Bible through ninety times.

St. Louis ministers who are Bible students, and who know many other Bible students, are not able to recall the name of any person who can approach the record of Mrs. O. M. Fitzgerald of New York, N. Y., the mother of Bishop James N. Fitzgerald, resident Bishop of the M. E. Church, who has read the Bible through ninety times.

Publication of this fact in Eastern religious papers has led to much discussion among the local clergy. Not one of them is able to point to a person who has completely read the Holy Scriptures half the number of times that Mrs. Fitzgerald has.
The Christian Herald of New York, in its issue of March 4, devotes a page and a half to the account of this remarkable woman and her studies of the Bible.

She completed her ninetieth reading February 15, a few days before her ninetieth birthday. The Sunday before her ninetieth birthday she began reading it for the ninety-first time.

Mrs. Fitzgerald has long been an invalid, and every Friday for the last forty years she has led a holiness meeting in her residence, which is one of the most picturesque in Newark.

Mrs. Fitzgerald has said:
"When I take this book in my hand, I know it to be the word of God. When I commence each time to read it anew, I do not begin it. I do not finish it. Just to say I have read the Bible through so many times."

"I read it as a miner seeks for gold.
Each time I read it through I find something new and precious, and if I should live to be a hundred years old, and be able to read it many more times, I should continue to find new things and precious within it."

One copy of the Bible, the present of her daughter, she has read forty times. Bishop Fitzgerald's son has a Bible that his grandmother has read and marked. Mrs. Fitzgerald began her consecutive readings of the Scriptures with the old family Bible.

That she read through seven times. When she was 12 years old she could repeat from memory each of the four gospels.

She has read the Bible through in three languages beside her own language—Spanish, German and French. Each reading when she is confined to her room, as at present, occupies about sixty days.

GIRL'S SWEET BARYTONE VOICE ATTRACTS THE MUSIC CRITICS.

—By a Republic Photographer.

Who as Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Odéon last week made the hit of the evening.

Miss Leora Spellmeyer, though yet a mere child in years, having just passed her fifteenth birthday, has natural music talents and a remarkable voice, which have already won for her fame in the dramatic and music world.

Her latest success was at the recent amateur performance at the Odéon of Shakespeare's idyllic comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," in which play as Puck she carried off the lion's share of applause and was voted by all present to have made the hit of the evening.

Possession of a deep barytone voice usually belongs only to the stronger sex, but Miss Spellmeyer is gifted with such a voice, and what is more remarkable, is accompanied by an unusual richness of volume and sweetness of tone.

She has been a pupil of Mme. Ida Fitzhugh Shepard's for almost a year, during which time her voice has steadily improved, and with a greater facility in taking higher notes has been noticed a corresponding ease in striking those of a lower register.

Mrs. Shepard is quite enthusiastic over her pupil, and predicts for her a wonderful career on the American stage. She claims that the girl gives promise even at her present age of equalling the great Helena Mora, whose barytone voice still rings in the ears of those who heard this famous singer many years ago.

Miss Spellmeyer is entirely unaffected by the public attention her voice has focused upon her. Simple and sweetly girlish in her manner, she looks forward to the career before her.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spellmeyer of No.
1101 Rutgers street, are very indulgent toward their talented daughter, and place every opportunity at her disposal for gratifying her ambition.

Mme. Shepard is anxious to take her pupil abroad next summer to complete her dramatic and music studies in the European schools, but Mr. and Mrs. Spellmeyer are as yet undecided.

NEW JERSEY GOAT THAT EATS GRAPE.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, March 21.—A goat with a fondness for chewing grape hung at houses of the dead was discovered yesterday at Rayonne, N. J., and with the discovery came the explanation of numerous mysterious disappearances of mourning. The goat is owned by Mrs. Mary O'Grady, a widow, living on Twentieth street, and is known from one end of the city to the other as "O'Grady's Goat." It has heretofore caused much trouble by chewing posters, articles displayed in front of groceries and clothes hanging from lines.

Undertakers have been mortified for several weeks at the theft of crape from houses. They would no longer hang mourning from a door or bell knob than it would be gone. Freeholder John T. Dempsey went to a house on East Twenty-second street Wednesday night, where a child had died, and fastened a bunch of white crape for which he had paid $5, to the bell knob. Two hours later it was gone. Another bunch was stolen to the house. A boy was left to guard the crape.

When about to enter the house yesterday Dempsey saw O'Grady's goat coming along and he hid. The goat ascended the stoop and began to chew the crape. Half of it was down its throat when Dempsey kicked it down from the stoop. A boy was left to guard the crape.

The undertakers passed yesterday afternoon resolutions calling for the death of O'Grady's goat. The widow says if anybody tries to harm her "innocent Billy" he will land in jail.
